When prefixes are added they modify the meaning of the root words. Example: the root word "ject" means to throw. You will commonly come across the prefixes in- and re- being add to "ject". They create the words "inject" (to put into) and "reject" (to throw out). In this case the prefix gave the root words direction. Suffixes are similar to Prefixes in that they modify the meaning of words, but they are added to the end of the root words. Example: the root "bio-" means life. The words "biography" (story of life) and "biology" (study of life) are examples of suffixes modifying the roots. Exercises for understanding prefixes, suffixes, and roots of words. Joining Words Put roots and suffixes together and then tell what you made. Make a Word This one guides it really well. The Root Word Slide Find roots and then create a bunch of words with roots. Underline and Build Off of the Roots These are a bit higher level roots. A root word is a basic word with no prefix or suffix added to it (a prefix is a string of letters that go at the start of a word; a suffix is a string of letters that go at the end of a word). By adding prefixes and suffixes to a root word we can change its meaning. The suffixes -er and -est are also used to form the comparative and superlative of adjectives (for example, light / lighter / lightest). For example: The root word astro could have the suffix -nomy added to it to make the word astronomy. 'Astro' means 'stars' and 'nomy' means the study of something. Astronomy is the study and knowledge of stars. The root word lingual could have the prefix bi- added to it to make the word bilingual. 'Bi' means two and 'lingual' means pertaining to language. Someone who is bilingual is fluent in two languages. Some root words can have both prefixes and suffixes attached to them to turn them into words with different meanings: Root word With a prefix added With a suffix added normal abnormal normality, normalism mightalmightymightily education educationco-education educational, educationally legal illegal legalise, legalismature immaturity behavior misbehavior behaviour, behavediction non-fiction fictional, fictionally dress undressed dressed happy unhappy happier, happily Children learn a range of words with suffixes and prefixes throughout their time at primary school, usually starting in Year 2 and Year 3. Often, children will be given a list of spellings to learn at home that all have the same suffix, or all have the same prefix. It is a good idea for them to be aware of root words, as learning one root word (for example: education), will then help them to spell other words containing that word such as co-education and educational. Learning root words, suffixes and prefixes also helps children to understand words better, as they begin to see links between different words and identify word families.
